1. I hereby declare that the version of the thesis I now submit to the University Library of the Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität Munich is identical to the version of my examination thesis accepted and approved by the referees and doctoral examination board. I furthermore declare that the version I now submit fulfils the required standards relating to data medium, file format, metadata, keywords etc. I am aware that the University Library may check the submitted version of my work for readability and compliance with the required standards. Should the work fail to comply with any of these requirements I understand that it will not be published.

2. I hereby grant to the University Library of the Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität a non-exclusive licence to make this thesis, including abstract and metadata, publicly accessible through the University Library repository. This licence is valid for the duration of the statutory protection period without territorial limitation, and includes the right to replicate the work as required, especially for the purposes of including the work and/or abstracts and metadata in electronic databases and of employing digital or other transmission technology to make this data available to large numbers of users, using either services invoked by user request or services initiated by the repository, and encompassing all forms of transmission (cable, wireless, satellite etc.) and protocol (TCP/IP, http, ftp etc.). Should a blocking note apply, either in relation to a patent or to publication of the thesis as a journal article or other published title, the granting of these usage rights will be delayed until the blocking period has expired.

3. The University Library is entitled to transfer the licence granted by this declaration either partially or wholly to a third party and to grant non-exclusive rights to other repositories without requiring my explicit permission.

4. I hereby affirm that no third-party rights are infringed by the electronic publication of this work and undertake to indemnify the University Library against any third-party claims relating to the infringement of copyright legislation or exclusive usage rights which may result from the publication of this thesis through the University Library repository. I undertake to reimburse any charges resulting from any rights infringement caused by myself.

5. I continue to retain the usage rights to my thesis and may also bestow these rights elsewhere provided this does not curtail the rights I have granted to the University Library in this declaration.
